SRA World Congress on Risk IV

The theme of the World Congress on Risk 2015 is: "Risk Analysis for Sustainable Innovation." By selecting this theme, SRA focuses on risks of importance to global development. The conference will address risk management from the global to the community scale. These topics will engage risk analysts in the fields of health, environment, agriculture, engineering, economics, decision-making, psychology, social & political sciences, communication, law & policy, and other disciplines.

In this arena of "Risk Analysis for Sustainable Innovation," the specific objectives of the 2015 World Congress on Risk are to:

1. Stimulate dialogue, learning and progress on risk issues of worldwide interest.
2. Share insights about analytic methods and decision processes used in different regions of the world and on different risk issues.
3. Demonstrate and disseminate recent advances in risk assessment, management, and communication.
4. Build bridges between organizations and individuals across the world to spread good risk management practices.

Biopolis

SRA and the World Congress Organizing Committee co-chairs invite you to attend the World Congress on Risk 2015. The past World Congresses have attracted hundreds of participants from over 40 countries creating a thriving global network of risk professionals. It is our hope that the fourth Congress will include an even greater circle of risk analysts, managers and decision makers, and thus will have an even greater impact.

Late-Breaking Poster Submission is still Open!
